

A time is coming set, time, place and date

Me and you time to confronting fate

Our fantasies and happiness all drawn
Like fairy tales, right before dawn

When looking at you through this glass
The distance pains me but this will pass

Always i will be your friend trusted and kind

This chemistry has made us now almost blind

In my heart i feel who you might be
If am wrong time will have to make me see

What happens thereafter is me and you in this?
Am going to wait even after the first kiss

These thoughts keep me going put that in mind
When contemplation meets moment, and what we might find in this love that in my heart is brand new My daughters i hope to tell them it is you i truly knew.
